During the last week or two there has been a marked and very welcome revival in our local stock market, and the tone is healthier all round than it has been since the great collapse. For some time past it has been evident that there was no lack of confidence in local financial circles, but simply a lack to convert their silver capital into gold in anticipation of the fall in exchange the Colony has been almost denuded of ready hold of than the old four-and-twopenny one, and as one means of checking the drain to places where clean dollars are in request the Bauks have recently been defacing with chops every clean dollar they could lay their bands on. One of last week's She aghai trade circulars stated that there intention to utilize the benefits of his travels to short of a skating rink, but only one mady fall ence of a comparatively recent period when such improved? If gold has not been found in sufficient and also the first and also the first and also the first and the first and also the first and t that port. This is probably an exaggoration India. of the scarcity, but at all events we are not quite so badly off as that in Hongkong, though the discredited metal is about as scarces commodity as could be named at the present time. While money remains so scarce it necessarily follows that there can be no very large recovery of values. Profits on trade are being all along the British coast, and also on the Conmade, however, in a moderate way, and as | tinent, many wroks have taken plus and many small abcumulations come on the market for | bundreds of lives have been lost. investment they induce a tendency towards higher prices in the stock market. There has lately been a little demand for shares from the Coast Ports, and hence the miniature boom we have been enjoying during the last fortnight. The market has been pretty well cleared of weak holders, and of torpedo stations in narrow waters. shares are now generally held by people who have no inclination to sell at present prices and who can only be induced to part with them when the prices are put up a few points so as to enable them to realise a profit on what they paid for them. All the Companies are doing well and showing earning powers largely out of proportion to the figure at which the stocks stand on the market. That the lowest point is quotations has been touched, however, everyone seems to be agreed, and investors, recognising in the corresponding week of last year. For The Professor happened to notice ensually while that they are likely to have to pay more the week enting November 18 the death-rate conversing with some friends, a balcony bathed the longer they wait, are coming forward in relatively large numbers. But do not anticipate that the recent upward movement will be long continued it will be checked as soon as the focal de-

and very lively times will be seen. It may be a question of a year or two or only of few months, but silver has sustained the worst blows that could happen to it and it cannot be very long, we think, before it settles down on some stable basis with reference to gold. In the meantime the | 393 | holders of local stocks have every reason to be satisfied with their present position as regards the dividend carning power of their investments and they may confidently look forward to a considerable addition to their capital by the appreciation in the value of their stocks. Even the holders of gold nining share appear likely to have their patience rewarded before very long, dividend on the preference shares, of the Punjom Company being expected almost immediately. Altogether the outlook is a cheerful one. It is to be hoped, however, that it will not lead to any revival of the gambling which has proved so disastrous in the past, but that investors will operate strictly within their means. Gambling is risky at the best of times, and is certainly so in the Hongkong share market

ANOTHER WONG TSOI HI CASE. This was an appeal by Yuen Kam, plaintiff is case against Yik Sau Shan and Chan Ping (co-partners in the Him Loong firm with Wong Tsoi Hi). The plaintiff claimed to recover from the said Chan Ping as guarantor a sum of $367.50, money lent on a promissory note. The note was chopped by Chan Ping himself with the chop of the Him Loong shop. Mr. A. Wise, Acting Puisne Judge, who tried the action, found for the respondent on the ground that the Him Loong chop was not a sufficient signature within the Statute of Frauds to bind the respondent personally as guaranter for the repayment of the money. The present was an appeal against each decision.

His subject was the nature of the spiden for man's great antiquity, as now accepted by all geologists and anthropologists. The evidence upon which the modern scientifie belief in the great antiquity of the Humar Ruce is base is of two kinds; that of the remains, and that of the age of the deposits in which the remains are found. It is to the latter that the new buildings at Kounedy Town are question that this lecture was devoted; the former will be treated of subsequently.

It therefore becomes of importance to endeavour to assign a date in years to that period. Certain complex astronomical phenomena point to the possibility of such an era of rapid charge of climate commencing about 2 0,000 years ago, and terminating about 80,000 years aro and many geologists believe that here we have, not only a pera cause of the glacial period, but a true chronological date for it; and this opinion the lecturer held until coming out to the Far East. But he now believes we must abundon this fascinating theory, for we all believed the glacial period was a cosmic phenomenon, leaving its traces everywhere in high latitudes. This he was now convinced is not the case, and northern Asia certainly shows no evidence of former glaciation, or even of ever having been so cold as at present. What gave rise to the glacial period is a question he could not discuss there, but he believes we shall find it is not so encient as we formerly imagined, and that some $0,000 years

This feature of the Jabilas was a tremendous success, and was immensely enjoyed, not only by the hundreds of juveniles who participated in but by the still greater numbers of children of a larger growth who watched the youngsters enjoying the first general play-ground they have ever been provided with in Shanghai. The great success of this portion of the programme must in a large measure be attributed to the untiring efforts of Mr. Joseph Welsh, the Chairman of the Children's Entertainment Sub-Committee, and of the non-commissioned and petty day: officers and men of the British Navy, more particularly those of the Caroline. At two o'clock the enclosure at the Grand stand was well filled, while some two hundred chidren of all Foreign nutionalities were ranged on the Stand, the boys casion. on one side, the girls on the other, to sing "The Jubilen Song." In addition to the more legitimate athletic oxercises there were various games which boys enjoy, including the much loyed "Three shies a penny," as well as tugs of war. But we think it was upon the Recreation Ground, which the sallors had fitted up for the little boys and girls, that the scenes of juvenile festivity were most. alluring. The ingenuity of the sailors had provided an almost endless variety of means of oujoyment for the youngsters, and without their assistance we fear the Jubilee Committee would have exhausted all their resource and not provided half the fun the hearty enthusiasm and oute contrivances of the jally Jack Tars provided.
Games new to the Shanghai boy and girl were here introduced for the first time, Aunt Sally, a fantastic life-sized creation in a print gown, and a tow wig, with a cutty-pipe in her mouth, embued her youthful admirers with the most frantic desire to smash her up with the short hamboo cadgels the sailers had provided, and the staidest piece of Shanghai precocity yielded to the pressing and comical invitation of the gallant tar, who "ran" Aunt Sally, to join in the noisy, merry game, for which the prizes were oranges. Then alongside, another reckless sailor played at the slightly risky game of "The man in the cask," and the escapes which he had from annihilation at the hands of his youthful admirers, and the dexterity with which he let the other fellow's head, that would not feel them, receive all the whacks not only amused the youngsters, but kept crowds of grown-up people,-men who have hardly a laugh left in them after their long residence in China, -enchanted and convulsed for hours together.
